LC ART SHOW UNVEILS LIBRARY TALENT

The Third LC Employee Art Show, co-sponsored by the Library's Professional Association and Welfare and Recreation Association, opened on Sunday, September 16, in the Main Building Ground Floor exhibit area.

In celebration of the opening, a reception was held on Sunday afternoon in the Whittall Pavilion for the artists, their guests, and members of the Library staff. Those attending were greeted by Donnie Draughon, president of WRA and Peter Watters, president of LCPA. Dr. Robert Cohen, Professor of Art at Montgomery County Community College, addressed the gathering. He commented on the overall high quality of the works on display and noted how well the Library's exhibit area and the manner in which the works were assembled enhanced the viewer's appreciation of them. He also stressed the importance of artistic expression and urged all contributors to continue their endeavors.

There are some 200 works of art on display by more than 70 employees, representing all six of the Library's departments. The diversity of the works reflects the varied interests of the artists. In addition to paintings in oil, acrylic, and watercolor, drawings in pencil, ink, and charcoal, and photographs both in black and white and color, there are sculptures, carvings and ceramics represented. Intricate needlework of many kinds is also included. Handcrafted fishing rods, terrariums, and a mobile of seashells are some of the more unusual works in the show.

The show was planned and assembled by the Art Show Committee, with the invaluable help of other individuals throughout the Library.

The first LC Employee Art Show was held in the fall of 1970, and the second followed in the fall of 1971. There was no show in 1972.

Originally scheduled for a two-week run, this show has been extended through October 15.

CRS PROGRAM CROSSOVER IMPLEMENTED

Congressional Research Service's Program Crossover, a program designed to enable selected CRS staff members in non-professional positions to move into professional research work through on the job and academic training, has been put into operation. Of the 26 applicants, all of whom must have been in grades GS-7 and below and must complete two years of training, the following were selected: Duane Barnes, Library Services, now assigned to Congressional Reference as a Reference Assistant; Marcia Jackson, Library Services, to Analyst in Public Welfare in the Education and Public Welfare Division; Toni Drake, American Law, to Legal Reference Assistant in American Law; Bernevia Milton, American Law, to Economic Analyst of the Economics Divi-

INFORMATION BULLETIN AVAILABLE ON TAPE FOR SPECIAL AUDIENCE

Taped summaries of the LC Information Bulletin are being recorded each week for blind staff members of the Library's Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped by a retired Library division chief, Dwight Gray. The recorded Information Bulletin also will be made available to blind and physically handicapped librarians. Those interested in receiving it regularly should send their requests to the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542. Attention: Volunteer Services Section.

Dr. Gray, who headed the Science and Technology Division from 1963 to 1965 and the former Technical Information Division from 1950 to 1955, records the Bulletin summary each week as a volunteer. He conceived the voluntary venture as he recalled his own experience in reading the publication:

"I read the Information Bulletin with considerable interest each week, primarily for news about library activities other than those in my own division. Rather, I depended on it for information about exhibits, library visitors, promotions, retirements, births, deaths, and events in the general library world. It occurred to me that a recorded version, prepared as soon as possible after the Information Bulletin comes out each week, might be of similar interest to blind DBPH staff members."

His initial effort received a hearty welcome from Maxine Dorf, Head of the DBPH Volunteer Services Section, and others among the division's blind staff members.

An undoubted inspiration to the narrator, who holds a doctorate in physics from Ohio State University, is the work of his wife, Helen Gray who, for over 20 years, has volunteered her personal reading service to blind DBPH staff members.

HOFFMAN BIBLIOGRAPHY RELEASED

Daniel Hoffman; A Comprehensive Bibliography, compiled by Michael Lowe, has recently been published by Norwood Editions. Mr. Lowe teaches at Neshaniny (Pa.) High School and held a Thouron Foundation Fellowship, an award to especially promising students from England to study English literature at the University of Pennsylvania.

The 64-page compilation lists the works by Daniel Hoffman, Library of Congress Consultant in Poetry for 1973-74. The bibliography includes Mr. Hoffman's books of poetry and criticism, recordings, poems published in periodicals and anthologies, translations, articles, and reviews. This publication may be obtained for $12 from Norwood Editions, P.O. Box 38, Norwood, Pa. 19074.

TOUR OFFICE RISES TO THE OCCASION

Almost everyone on the Library staff at one time or another has been engulfed by a group of visitors being given a fleeting look at the Library by a member of the Tour Office. Some staff members may have had this experience more often than usual this past summer.

During the months of June, July, and August the Tour Office with a little (but much appreciated) help from the Main Reading Room staff guided 12,569 visitors on tours!

COMBINED FEDERAL CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED AT LIBRARY

The 1973 Combined Federal Campaign in the National Capital area got underway on September 25. This single annual effort combines the financial requirements of most of the local voluntary agencies, the American National Red Cross, the National Health Agencies, and four International Service Agencies. Contributions will help these agencies pay their staff, maintain facilities, institute programs, and extend vital health, welfare, and social services to our community. The overall goal for this year's campaign is $9,200,000. The Library's fair share is $83,000, an increase of more than $7,000 over last year's goal.

The Librarian will serve as Chairman of the Library's campaign and has appointed as Vice-Chairman Elliott C. Finley, Assistant Chief of the Central Services Division. Mr. Finley will be assisted by Donald Leavitt of the Reference Department, Joan Van Blake of the Processing Department, Eric Reid of the Copyright Office, Kimberly Dobbs of the Law Library, Nancy Radford of the Librarian's Office, John Rosenthal of the Congressional Research Service, and Norman Shaffer of the Administrative Department. Many other co-workers will serve as division chairmen and keyworkers.

As in previous years, each staff member will be contacted personally; contributors are urged to use the payroll deduction plan which allows for deductions for a part or all of the year.

PUBLIC POLICY SEMINARS HELD FOR MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

The first in a 1973-74 series of seminars on public policy sponsored by the Congressional Research Service and conducted by the Advanced Study Program of the Brookings Institution for Members of Congress was held on September 18 in the Whittall Pavilion. A separate seminar series on other topics is being conducted for Congressional staff. The subject of this first seminar session was "Food Scarcity—Temporary or Chronic?" Resource panelists were Lester R. Brown, Senior Fellow at the Overseas Development Council in Washington, D.C., and Herrell F. DeGraff, President of the American Meat Institute in Chicago.

This ongoing series, held while Congress is in session, began last summer with Lester S. Jayson, Director of CRS, and James M. Mitchell, Director of the Advanced Study Program at the Brookings Institution, as hosts and chairmen.

For more than six months, Fred M. Bindman has faced all comers in the Library Chess Club's Annual Tournament, and, as he was last year, has been named champion with an impressive series of wins. Mr. Bindman was awarded the tournament trophy September 19 at the noon gathering for games by Stephen Crockett, Chess Club President.

In amassing the best record of the round-robin competition, Mr. Bindman won 25 games, lost two, and one ended in a draw.

Besides being an avid chess buff, Mr. Bindman has a professional interest in music as Head of the Music Section in the Descriptive Cataloging Division. Above, he contemplates a move.

CIP EXPANDS PROGRAM PARTICIPATION

On September 6, Alma Mather, Head of the Federal Documents Section, Exchange and Gift Division, and William Gosling, Cataloging in Publication Program Manager, visited Mark Carroll, Director, and Jerome Petsche, of the Office of Professional Publications, National Park Service, to discuss the inclusion of their publications in the CIP Program. This is the first visit to a Federal Government agency under the current expansion of the CIP Program to include select Federal Government documents. The CIP Office has received the first title from Mr. Carroll and it is being processed.

Mrs. Mather and Mr. Gosling will be contacting other Government agencies as time and work schedules permit to add their publications to the Program. The Library plans to provide CIP data for those in-scope titles produced by agencies who publish monographic titles which are widely acquired and cataloged by libraries.

The CIP Program is now operating at about 75 percent of the American book trade. New trade publishers are being contacted on a regular basis to have their titles phased into the Program as soon as word is received that they are ready to begin participating. Publishers who have actively joined the Program since July 1 include: ARC Reprinters Corporation, Anchor Press/Doubleday, Art Alliance Press, Athletic Press, BFA Educational Media, Bro-Dart Publishing, William Carey Library, Chandler & Sharp Publishers, Inc., Crowell-Collier Press, Dolphin Books, Duquesne University Press, The Ecco Press, Four Winds Press, Gateway Editions, Geographic & Area Study Publications, Handel & Company, Inc., Hennessey & Ingalls, Inc., Hoover Institution Press, Indiana University Press, Institute for Language Study, Inter-American Dialogue Center, Konocti Books, Lawrence Hill and Company, Littlefield, Adams and Company, Media Projects, Inc., Medical Computer Services Association, R. W. Norton Art Gallery, Open Court Publishing Company, Plenum Publishing Corporation, Reader's Digest Press, Sea Cliff Press, Limited, Sipapu/Konocti Books, Southern Genealogist's Exchange Society, Spoken Language Services, Inc., Teachers College Press, Trilobite Press, Inc., The Two Continents Publishing Group Limited, University of Miami Press, and Wollstonecraft Incorporated.

AMERICANA SEMINARS HELD FOR DOCTORAL CANDIDATES

The first session for this school term of the Americana seminar in the Library of Congress, now given on alternate years, met in the Wilson Room on September 11. This is the fourth time the seminar, a six-hour requisite course for the Library of Congress and the George Washington University joint doctoral program in American civilization, with emphasis upon library research and collections, has been offered.

Prof. Robert H. Walker is the University's coordinator for this program and Robert H. Land, Chief of the LC General Reference and Bibliography Division, is the Library's coordinator. Specialists drawn from several departments of the Library participate in the seminar which presents distinguishing features of the Library's various collections of Americana and how these collections were developed, and are controlled, described, and used. LC specialists also prepare students for their Ph. D. general examinations in fields offered in the affiliated program and assist them in their dissertation research.

Each student in the seminar must use these collections in compiling an annotated bibliography on a topic relating to the period from the American Revolution to the Civil War. At the first session Mr. Land and Prof. Walker made introductory remarks; David C. Mearns, the Library's honorary consultant in the humanities and author of a history of the Library The Story Up to Now, gave a lecture, "Welcome to Parnassus," in which he discussed significant events in the development of the collections; George H. Caldwell, Head of the Public Reference Section, spoke on national bibliography of the United States; and William D. Rowe, Jr., reference specialist, described the resources and services of the Local History and Genealogy Room.

Students enrolled in the course this year are: Thomas Battle, M.L.S., University of Maryland, who is on the staff of the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center; Prentiss Gillespie, M.L.S., University of Wisconsin, who is on the staff of the Preservation Office; James W. Gilreath, M.A. in American studies, Case Western Reserve and M.L.S., University of Arizona; James P. Johnson, M.L.S., Rutgers University, another reference librarian at the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center; Ted Johnson, M.A. in American studies, University of Wyoming; Garland L. Standrod, M.L.S., University of Maryland; Edith Tepper, who has taken graduate work in psychology at the University of Maryland; and Lester I. Vogel, M.L.S., Rutgers University, who is on the staff of the Descriptive Cataloging Division. Mr. Johnson and Miss Tepper have recently been appointed to part-time positions in the Reference Department and Congressional Research Service, respectively, to enable them to study in the joint LC-GWU program.

The University and the Smithsonian Institution have an affiliated doctoral program with emphasis on the material culture of the United States, in which Wilcomb E. Washburn of the Smithsonian staff guides degree candidates.

Mr. Mearns speaks to seminar participants (back row, left to right): Mr. Standrod, Theodore Johnson, Mr. Battle, and Miss Tepper. Seated front row, left to right, are Mr. Gilreath, Mr. Vogel, James Johnson, and Mr. Gillespie.

STAFF NEWS

CRS Appoints Two Specialists

Frederick B. Arner, Chief of the Education and Public Welfare Division, Congressional Research Service, has been appointed Senior Specialist in Social Welfare, filling the vacancy created by the retirement of I. M. Labovitz earlier this year. Mr. Arner assumed his new duties on September 3.

Born in Champaign, Ill., Mr. Arner attended Kenyon College from 1941 until 1943 when he joined the U.S. Army Air Force. Following the War, he returned to Kenyon College and was graduated the following year with an A.B. magna cum laude in political science. He taught at the St. James School in Hagerstown, Md., from 1947 to 1948, leaving to enroll in Harvard Law School.

In 1951 he was recalled to active duty with the Strategic Air Command. After his return from duty he attended the George Washington University Law School and received his LL.B. degree in 1953. He was admitted to the Bar of the District of Columbia the same year.

Mr. Arner joined the Library staff in 1952 as a Reference Assistant in the former Government Division. Promoted to successively more responsible positions, he became a Social Science Analyst in the Government Division in 1953 before moving to the American Law Division, where he served as a Legal Analyst for the next three years. He then returned to the Government Division as a Social Welfare Analyst and was promoted to Analyst in Social Legislation in the Education and Public Welfare Division in 1958.

Mr. Arner left the Library briefly in 1959 when he was selected by the Chairman of the Subcommittee on Administration of the Social Security Laws, House Committee on Ways and Means. He served as counsel for the Subcommittee during its study of the administration of the Social Security Disability Program.

Named to the position of Specialist in Social Legislation in 1960, Mr. Arner assumed the duties of Assistant Chief of the Education and Public Welfare Division in 1961, and was promoted to Chief in 1962. He was promoted to the position of Senior Specialist in Social Security Legislation and Chief of the Division in 1965.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Mr. Arner was the recipient of outstanding performance ratings in 1957 and 1960.

Warren H. Donnelly, Specialist in Governmental Science Policy Administration, in the Science Policy Research Division of CRS was appointed Senior Specialist in Conservation on September 3. He fills the vacancy created by the recent retirement of John K. Rose.

A native of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., Mr. Donnelly received the B.S. degree from Queens College in 1942. He served with the U.S. Army Air Corps in World War II, and following military service accepted employment as an engineer with Tuck Electronics, Inc., of New York. In 1946 he accepted an engineering position with the Western Electric Corp. and two years later began his career in Government as Administrative Officer with the Atomic Energy Commission in New York City.

In addition to his work for the Commission, Mr. Donnelly undertook a graduate academic program in public administration at New York University that led to his earning the M.P.A. degree in 1953 and the Ph. D. in 1962.

Assigned to progressively more responsible positions with the Commission, he was involved with contract administration from 1954 to 1958, becoming Deputy Director of the New York Offices Contract Division, and from 1958 to 1963 he was Director of the Technical Services Division. Transferring to the Commission's Washington facility in 1963, he worked as Technology Utilization Officer with the Division of Industrial Participation, engaged in creating conditions to foster the early and successful transfer of new scientific and technological developments from AEC laboratories to industrial applications.

Mr. Donnelly came to the Library of Congress in March 1965 as a Specialist in Science and Technology in the Science Policy Research Division of the then Legislative Reference Service. He was promoted to his present position in October 1968. Since joining the CRS staff, Mr. Donnelly has worked continually in the field of energy, beginning with nuclear energy problems and progressively turning to other fuel sources and their environmental effects and technological development. He has established himself as a leading legislative and technical expert in the resources field.

Active in professional affairs, Mr. Donnelly belongs to the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Society for Public Administration. He is the author of a number of reports which have been published by Congressional Committees, and has been a speaker and panelist at numerous scientific and technical meetings. He has also served on the staff of the Graduate School of the Department of Agriculture, teaching courses in public policy for science and technology.

RETIREMENTS

Charlie C. Kennedy, Photographer in the Photoduplication Service, retired on September 14 after 30 years of Federal service. Before coming to the Library of Congress Photoduplication Service in August 1946, Mr. Kennedy was employed in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for three and a half years. At the time of his retirement, he was presented a 30-year Federal Service Award pin by F. E. Croxton, Director of the Administrative Department.

Mr. Kennedy's career in the Photoduplication Service, where he progressively advanced from Messenger to Photographer, was marked by his consistently professional performance and by his cooperative and cheerful attitude.

Pauline Suggs retired on June 29, 1973 after 17 years of Government service. A native of Creswell, N.C., Mrs. Suggs received numerous commendations as a Stack Cleaner for the Buildings Management Office during her long and honorable service. She will be greatly missed by her co-workers. A luncheon was held in her honor and she was presented a purse.

AWARDS

Fred M. Bindman may now wear in his lapel the emblem that indicates the completion of 20 years of Federal service, having reached that point in his career on August 11. Mr. Bindman's career at the Library of Congress is a distinguished one that has merited him several outstanding performance ratings.

With a degree in musicology from Boston University and a Master's degree in library science from Simmons College, he began his Federal career in 1953 in the Music Section of the Copyright Cataloging Division. In January 1957 he transferred to the Descriptive Cataloging Division where he has held positions of increasing responsibility in the field of music cataloging.

Mr. Bindman was appointed Head of the Music Section of Descriptive Cataloging Division in November 1972. He is an active participant in the Music Library Association and an ardent chess player. [See related story on p. 337.]

Ramón González, Legal Reference Assistant in the Hispanic Law Division of the Law Library, was presented a 20-year Federal Service Award pin on September 14 by Rubens Medina, Chief of the division.

Mr. González was graduated from Florida State University in 1950 with an A.B. in modern languages. Before coming to the Library, he served with the U.S. Air Force and taught in schools in Florida and Maryland.

He joined the Library of Congress staff in 1957 as an Accessioner in the Hispanic Exchange Section, Exchange and Gift Division. In 1958 he transferred to the Law Library where he served as an Editorial Assistant in the European Law Division and a Reference Librarian in the Hispanic Law Division. Mr. González was promoted to his present position last December.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Catherine I. Bahn, Principal Recommending Officer in the Science and Technology Division, was awarded a Certificate of Appreciation "for 20 years of significant and sustained service" as a member of the faculty in the Department of Communication and Language Arts by the United States Department of Agriculture Graduate School. The certificate was presented by the Director, John B. Holden, at the annual faculty dinner on September 12, held this year at the L'Enfant Plaza Hotel.

Charles F. Cooney of the Manuscript Division is the author of "At the Trial of the Lincoln Conspirators: The Reminiscences of General August V. Kautz" in sion; Blanchard Randall, Library Services, to Analyst in Science Policy in the Science Policy Research Division; Juanita Harris, Foreign Affairs, to Social Science Analyst in the Government and General Research Division; Cynthia Wright, Office of the Director, to Research Assistant, for Senior Specialists; Brenda Branaman, Senior Specialists, to Analyst in Foreign Affairs, Foreign Affairs Division; and Emma Blacken, American Law, to Analyst in Environmental Policy in the Environmental Policy Division.

The candidates were chosen by Norman Beckman, Deputy Director of CRS and Basil Owens, Executive Officer, with the assistance of Louis Mortimer, designated by the Director of Personnel as an adviser.

The program requires the completion of 30 semester hours of academic credit by each selected staff member within two years, with this year's group selected in time to meet the fall schedule of classes in local colleges and universities. Classes are on the employee's own time.

During the two years the nine staff members will occupy internship positions. Division chiefs and supervisors in CRS will have responsibility for insuring that participants have ample opportunity to demonstrate their capacity to perform professional research work.

In addition to providing an unusual opportunity for career development, several other benefits have already been derived from Program Crossover. The other CRS applicants not chosen for this year's program have received counseling in other available training opportunities. Moreover, most of the applicants have now enrolled in courses to improve their performance of current work assignments and to help qualify them for other positions within CRS. The cost of tuition primarily is met through the Library's Tuition Support Program. In several cases employee attention has been directed to positions posted likely to contribute to their career opportunities in CRS.

Program Crossover is designed to meet CRS's responsibilities under Objective Two of the Library of Congress's Employment Opportunity Plan of Affirmative Action for fiscal year 1974. It is expected that the CRS experience in getting Program Crossover underway will be of benefit to other departments as they move to implement the Library plan later this year.

Addressing the new interns in his office September 17, Lester Jayson, Director of CRS, said "Program Crossover has the potential for making available skill and talents of CRS staff that would not otherwise be utilized. It will provide an opportunity for upward mobility . . . , it should motivate the people chosen toward higher achievement and contribute to a climate conducive to high morale in the Service . . . , and finally, the program is providing us with an in-house base for selection of candidates for professional positions in CRS."

Civil War Times Illustrated, August 1973. A selection from Kautz's original reminiscences concerning his service as a member of the Military Commission that tried the Lincoln Conspirators is included. The original reminiscences of General Kautz, from which the selection was taken, are in the custody of the Manuscript Division.

Mark A. Lillis, Assistant Chief, Reference Division, and Dale Hutchinson, also of the Reference Division, represented the Copyright Office at the First Annual Conference on Instructional Technology for Government Trainers, held at the National 4-H Foundation Center, Chevy Chase, Md., September 11, 12, and 13. The conference was sponsored by the Interagency Advisory Group 294, Committee on Training and Development and the U.S. Civil Service Commission. Workshops, seminars, and demonstrations were open to personnel within the Federal Government, State and local governments, and international organizations. The Copyright Office staffed an information booth for the convenience of conference participants.
